Up to the Administration

THE Pulaski County Grand Jury started in investigation against the 1929 legislature last March, and after two indictments in connection with the horse racing bill left off its probe with the recommendation that the Grand Jury which convenes in Little Rock next Monday take it up again.

Newspaper reports of that Grand Jury statement last March are an interesting comment upon public government in Arkansas today. After the story of the horse-racing indictment, we read:

"Further information obtained by the Grand Jury, 'not definite and sufficient enough for the return of other indictments,' involved other members of the legislature, it is said, not only in connection with the horse-racing bill but with other bills as well. The accusation in some instances was bribery and in others was 'doctoring the books'."

The Grand Jury should move promptly next Monday. The whole state will be watching Little Rock after digesting the expose which was begun last March. Governor Parnell himself will be expected to do something—and whatever he does will have a material bearing on the 1930 campaign.

It won't help the governor to claim that the executive and legislative branches of government are separate and independent of each other, because not since Governor McRae has there been an Arkansas executive who was unable to virtually command the legislature to do his bidding or the bidding of those who commanded him.

The astonishing fact is that the Administration has not even attempted to obtain the customary judicial white-wash. This may prove to be a most serious error. We would recommend that a friendly investigation—for if the next Grand Jury is left to its simple untutored ways it may turn up evidence that will be exceedingly embarrassing to the conscientious and hard-working Administration when it next meets the people of Arkansas at the polls.

Curbing A Nuisance

THE action of a New York resident in filing suit to restrain a neighbor from annoying him with a radio loudspeaker raises a question that has been in the minds of a good many citizens since the advent of the radio.

The radio is a wonderful invention, and it has brought happiness to a great many people; but there is no denying that there are times when it is nothing more or less than a nuisance. Since it is a new development, there is no law to cover its abuse, and the outcome of the New Yorker's lawsuit will be watched with a good deal of interest.

We still have the idea that whatever a man chooses to do in his own home he may do. There are certain limits, to be sure; if he entertains a noisy, singing party at three in the morning, if he essays to install a pippen in his back yard, or if he sets up a smoky and noisy machine shop in his house, his neighbors can have the law on him. But barring such actions, a man can do about as he pleases in his own home.

The radio loudspeaker, however, presents a new problem. If a man persists in keeping his radio turned on throughout the evening, with the loudspeaker close to an open window, and the program "coming in strong," he can make life acutely miserable for all of his neighbors—yet there is nothing whatever, as law and custom now stand, that they can do about it.

They can complain to the police, but the police are extremely reluctant to act in such cases. They can beseech the radio owner to tune his program down a bit softer, but if he doesn't choose to do so they are out of luck.

Sooner or later we shall have to find some way of handling this situation. The loudspeaker can easily be made into a neighborhood nuisance. If a radio owner has not enough consideration for the rights of others, there ought to be some way of choking him off.

Are We Seeing Things?

WASHINGTON LETTER

By ROONEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—Six states have prohibition enforcement laws with one or more features "less stringent in character than the Volstead Act" and five have no enforcement codes at all, according to the new Anti-Saloon League Year Book for 1929.

The six are Arizona, Connecticut, Delaware, Louisiana, Massachusetts and Rhode Island. The five are Maryland, Montana, Nevada, New York and Wisconsin.

Thirteen of the League's state superintendents report "good," "fine" or "very good" co-operation by public officials. 27 "passive," "fair," "improving" or "spot-bly" and four "poor."

States which want to know how bad or how good they are from the Anti-Saloon League's viewpoint may consult the following summary of Leagues reports for 1928:

Alabama—Enforcement conditions seemingly improving. The 1927 law making transportation or possession of five or more gallons of liquor has had good results.

Arizona—Voted for Hoover and elected one of the League's state trustees for governor. Known as "bone-dry" but hundreds of miles of international border and rugged topography present serious smuggling and moonshine problems.

Arkansas—Has a dry congressional delegation and various enforcement laws, including one making possession of any liquor unlawful.

California—Federal enforcement has been greatly handicapped with the law openly violated and certain officials indifferent. Serious problem caused by production of alcoholic wine tonics and fruit preserves which are potable, but legalized by federal permit.

Colorado—Drys have been winning at the polls including a state referendum in 1926. Physicians are limited to four-ounce prescriptions.

Connecticut—Enforcement conditions improving, with substantial increase in fines. Drastic prohibition legislation failed in 1928.

Delaware—Reports failure of great drive to modify state enforcement code in 1928 and Hoover 1928 victories in home districts of John J. Rascos, Pierre S. du Pont and Captain W. H. Stayton.

District of Columbia—Volstead Act is vigorously supported by officials and police are active and zealous, steadily improving conditions.

Florida—More or less violation, but fair enforcement in most of the state. Hope for better conditions despite geographical conditions favoring smuggling.

Idaho—Prohibition efficiently enforced in some of the counties and lax in others. State law holds possession unlawful.

Illinois—Dry candidates elected last year despite wet referendum victory in 1926. State Anti-Saloon League distributed 10,000,000 pages of literature in 1928. Prohibitions well enforced in most counties.

Indiana—Elected full dry slate of candidates. Has an unusually drastic state enforcement code, results of which are not yet reported.

Kansas—State prohibitory law has been as well enforced as any other law for 220 years. All important daily and weekly newspapers support prohibition.

Kentucky—Notable improvement since the election. ment in enforcement conditions.

Louisiana—Enforcement conditions far from perfect, but improving.

Massachusetts—Dry candidates elected last year, but dry progress has to be made inch by inch.

Michigan—Voted for Smith and wets won large majority in prohibition referendum last year. Legislature passed padlock law at last session.

WHAT TO DO WHEN TONGUE IS COATED

Alabama Tells How She Heeds Warning Sign By Taking Pinch of Black-Draught.

Mobile, Ala.—Mrs. Alafair Howard, of 8 Harris Street, this city, tells below what she thinks about Thedford's Black-Draught:

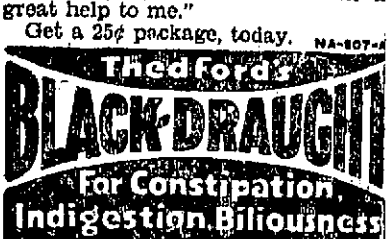

"I have found Black-Draught to be an excellent medicine. I have used it in my home, whenever I have needed a laxative.

"I am the mother of several children, and it is necessary to keep medicine in the house which can be depended upon to quickly relieve constipation. Whenever my children complain of headache, or upset stomach, or if they show signs of taking cold, I begin giving them Black-Draught, as I have found that it clears the system and removes the cause of the trouble.

"When I get up in the morning, and my tongue is coated and rough, I know it is a sign of trouble. A pinch of Black-Draught, three times a day, is all I need to regulate this.

"I have found it so handy to keep, and easy to take, that it has come to be our family stand-by. I am glad to recommend Black-Draught to other people, for it has been a great help to me."

THE FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH FOR YOUR CAR

Most cars grow old before their time—due to lack of proper lubrication. The greasing rack and quality lubricants are the Fountain of Youth for any car.

The very best oil—even "Standard" Motor Oil—will lose some of its lubricating properties, become diluted and contaminated through use. Have your crank case drained and flushed every 500 miles of driving. Refill with the proper grade of "Standard" Motor Oil. That is the only safe and sure way to keep friction and wear-and-tear down to minimum.

Every 1,000 miles, your car should have a general greasing—springs, chassis, bearings, steering gear, fan belt, etc. On the average car there are some 63 points that need attention. Every 2,500 miles of driving, the gear cases should be flushed and refilled with the proper "Standard" Lubricant.

Most "Standard" Dealers, and stations operated by this company, are equipped to grease cars quickly and effectively. Greasing should be done regularly. It will keep your car youthful in action, save money in the long run, and get a better "trade in" when you buy a new car.

Henry L. Farrell

Defeat of Jones

"We all have to be beaten." It was Bobby Jones speaking, as he shook hands with the youth at Pebble Beach who had just pushed him back as he was about to cross the threshold of immortal fame in golf.

This was not the club-throwing tempestuous Jones of a few years back who would lose all control of himself in a wave of bitterness when he missed a neasy shot or found difficulty in a bunker. Rather it was a wise veteran, speaking with the philosophy of defeat, "We all have to be beaten."

Sermon on Life

He might have said, "For every victory there is a defeat, just as every gain is another's loss. We cannot be perfect in what we do. If we were perfect there could be no victory because no one could be beaten. As we go through life we learn that we have to close as well as win."

"When I was younger I had a terrible temper. I was fighting for perfection. I still have that temper, but it doesn't get the better of me any more. I have learned that it never helps your next shot to break your clubs. I used to think a 10-foot putt the easiest thing in the world, and flew into a rage if I missed such a shot. I know differently now. I know a 10-foot putt is the easiest thing in the world to miss."

Jones might have said all that, but he wouldn't have been understood any better than when he merely said, "We all have to be beaten." He put a great deal of the philosophy of life into few words. He remains a master, even in defeat.

Swift Example

For Johnny Goodman, the rising young Omaha golfer who beat the great man, the words came at an opportune time. After defeating Jones, Goodman went out after an hour and lost to a still younger golfer, Lawson Little, Jr., four-old San Francisco youth. The chance for him to apply Jones' philosophy was not long in coming. Goodman not only will play better golf but will be a better man if he takes Jones' words to heart.

Jones learned his lesson seven years ago at Brookline. Jess Sweetser was the man who helped him to learn it, beating Bobby 8 and 7, though Jones played the best golf at his command. Sometimes the best you can do is not as good as what another man is doing. It hardly seems necessary to say that you can't win under those conditions.

Jones' father helped him learn the lesson, too. After Jones had fallen before Sweetser at Brookline, his father went to him and told him he was proud of the way he had played in that match. "I didn't want him to win a championship," said Jones, senior "until he could convince me and myself that he was able to handle a title. After he stood up the way he did at Brookline, under Sweetser's marvelous golf, I knew that he was ready."

Zupke's Awful Outlook

Coch Bob Zupke arrived on the campus at the University of Illinois the other day with a gloomy face. "Frosty" Peters, quarterback and dropkicking star, has had an operation and will not be back. Under a new faculty ruling a man can be declared ineligible in the middle of a season. "We'll have our hands full winning a game, I guess," said Zupke.

Maybe Bob's boys will manage to win one game, though, if they just struggle heroically enough.

WHY FOOTBALL STARS GET SWELLED HEADS

Swelled heads do not always burst with a loud report and a hiss of hot air. Some of them deflate very slowly indeed and with the infliction of much pain and distress upon their owners.

The latter sort of swell-headed youth is revealed in all his glory in "The Time, the Place and the Girl," the Warner Bros. Vitaphone talking and singing picture now at the Saenger theatre. Robert Lord adapted the story from Hough, Adams and Howard's musical comedy success.

Grant Withers is seen as the "hero"—and when one considers that he is the biggest football star of the season, that many women are crazy about him, and that bond houses are bidding for his services the instant he gets out of college—one can hardly blame him.

His Wall Street adventures and his entanglements with several women bring him to earth—but there is, of course, the One Girl who whisks him back to a "blue heaven" of their very own.

Steele Gets Decision Over Local Man In Ten-Round Bout At Newport

Poor Attendance Took Pep Out of Boxers and Show Was Tame Affair—Tex Introduces Self As Promoter Here Thursday Night.

"Battling Jack" Steele, of Laredo, Texas, took a decision from Tex Leavelle in their ten round bout at Newport Monday night before the smallest crowd Leavelle says he ever boxed before. Leavelle returned here Tuesday noon to get things in readiness for Thursday night's right card.

INDEPENDENT OILS
MAIN OFFICE
LITTLE ROCK, ARK.
September 16, 1929.

TO OUR FRIENDS IN ARKANSAS:

only that of company and customer, my decision would be easy.

We are retiring. Were our relationship with the public to be really a public utility and our service a public trust.

When hundreds of thousands of people come to depend on the thousands of "Gay" outlets throughout all Arkansas for products that today are among the prime necessities of life - as much a daily need as electric lights, gas or the telephone - our greatest and most serious responsibility is to the public.

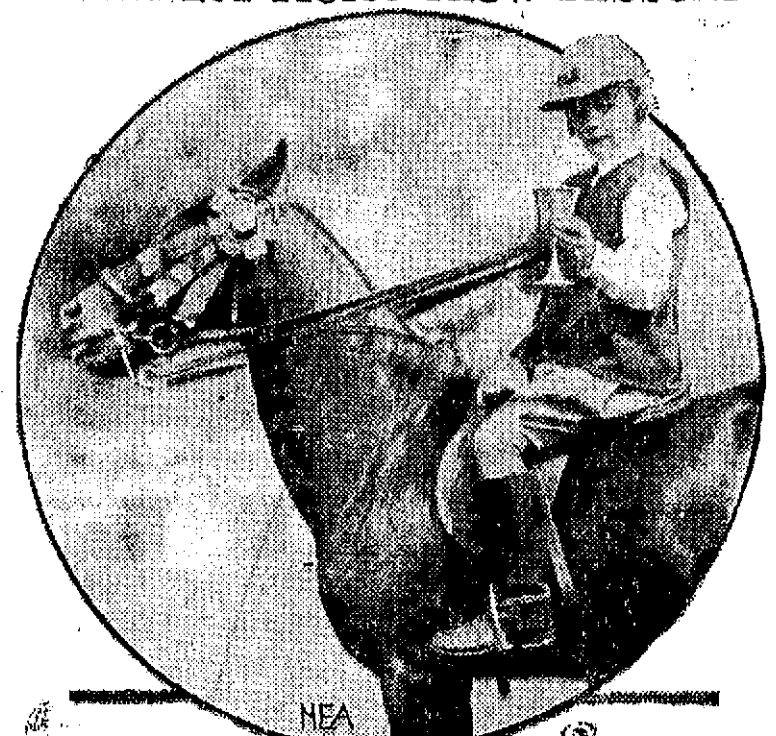

For this reason we have spent a long time seeking a successor to the Gay Oil Company competent to continue the service you now enjoy and worthy of the trust you have placed with us.

We have found this successor in the Louisiana Oil Refining Corporation, of Shreveport, Louisiana. About October 1, the Louisiana Oil Refining Corporation will establish a separate division in Arkansas, with independent headquarters in Little Rock and continue and advance the work we started with the same stations and employees you now know.

Even the Loreco Gasoline and Loreco Motor Oils of our successors are produced from Arkansas petroleum wells. I want you to join me in welcoming the Louisiana Oil Refining Corporation to citizenship in Arkansas.

Cordially yours,
THE GAY OIL COMPANY,
T. J. Gray,
President.

stations are already maintained in these Arkansas towns and cities: Texarkana, Magnolia, Stephens, Smackover, Fordyce, Rison, Pine Bluff, Gordon, Dermott, Lake Village and Hope.

"For the past several years we have been approached with numerous offers from a dozen or more large oil companies," said Mr. Gay, in commenting on the transaction. "All of these we have steadfastly refused, however, until the present opportunity presented itself. In joining forces with the Louisiana Oil Refining Corporation, however, we feel that we can assure our customers and friends the very finest product and a type of service with which they will be pleased."

"Although we have added more than 40 oil companies within the past two years, we have made no association of which we are more proud than that with the Gay organization," said Mr. Grogan. "We come into Little Rock already citizens of Arkansas, since much of our production and some of our marketing outlets are already in this state. Offering 'master service' which gives the motorist the opportunity to purchase everything he may need for his car at one of our stations, we hope to merit the confidence and patronage not only of all Gay customers but of an increasing circle of friends, as well."

The Hope dealer, handling both bulk and retail sales, is the P. A. Lewis Motor company.

School Teachers Endorse New Discovery

Many Children Will Go to School Half Sick
Watch Out for Malaria and Billiousness

Prepare Your Children for School by Having Them in Fine Condition.

With school now going on it is the time to put your children in trim, and clean out their systems of the candy and trash they have been eating all summer long, and remove those germs of malaria, which may be prevalent in their system.

Many children start to school handicapped. Why? Mothers watch your children—don't spank because they do not do well at school—it may not be their fault. If the child is unruly, cross, has bad breath, restless at night, occasional fever, constipated and has no pep for school work it is no doubt troubled with malaria, or billiousness or probably both ailments. In either case it needs the right treatment and you should give the child immediate attention.

Many school teachers endorse the New Discovery—NASH'S CHILL & LIVER TONIC—they know what it has done for their pupils in the way of putting them in tip-top CHILL & LIVER TONIC is a wonderful for their school work. NASH'S CHILL & LIVER TONIC—not had to take, yet very effective—contains no poisons and can't harm even the smallest child.

NASH'S is a New Discovery—put up by a Pharmaceutical Chemist, who was born in the South and knows the proper treatment for Southern ailments.

After exhaustive study and pharmaceutical research he has discovered a remedy that will correct most of the minor ailments of his native land. He discovered nine out of ten cases of sickness in this climate are caused by billiousness and malaria. To get a medicine that would treat both of these troubles at the same time, was a problem, but after years of experimenting and hard study this famous medicine has been put on the market to the public and has met with probably quicker success than any preparation ever manufactured.

So sure are the manufacturers of this preparation that they authorize each and every drug store to sell on a money-back guarantee. You would think a preparation so effective would be prohibitive in price—but not so, on account of the tremendous sale this preparation is sold for a very small price of fifty cents per bottle.

When Do You Need
Nash's Tonic?

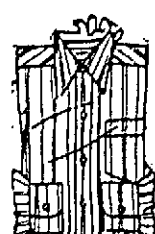

If you or your children are bilious—feel out of sorts—lazy—have no pep—nervous—have foolish dreads or fears—hate to get up in the morning—restless at night—have coated tongue—stomach out of order—ache in every bone—have chilly sensations—headache and backache, if you have any of these symptoms you are no doubt troubled with malaria of billiousness or both. Take a few doses of NASH'S CHILL & LIVER TONIC, and if it does not improve your health immediately throw the bottle in the alley and go to your druggist and get your money back—the manufacturers don't want a cent of your money if you are not benefited.

Kill the Chill
Before the Ill!

This great chill tonic in also a splendid purgative, and a general family tonic. You don't have to be sick to have to take this remedy. Take it to keep from being sick. Take it on that first sign of any of the symptoms of malaria. Why wait until the chills and fever grip you—kill the chill before the ill, and before you have a bad case of malaria. Some folks are buying six bottles at a time, so they won't run out, and take NASH'S CHILL & LIVER TONIC as a general tonic. DRUGGISTS of Hope, and neighboring towns are selling lots of this preparation and will be glad to supply their customers at fifty cents per bottle on the NASH guarantee.

Guarantee

Every druggist is authorized to refund the entire purchase price on each and every bottle of NASH'S CHILL & LIVER TONIC, which proves to be unsatisfactory or does not make you feel good again. NASH BROS., MANUFACTURERS.—Adv.
